Would You Eat This Apple?

Most people wouldn’t.

The reality is that diseases and insects destroy fruit crops. Responsible pesticide use is often the only way to prevent huge losses and inedible fruit.

Purdue Extension experts help growers responsibly manage their crops to grow fruit we all would eat.

DISEASES

- Black rot
- Bitter rot
- Fire blight
- Scab

INSECTS

- Codling moth
- Plum curculio
- Japanese beetle

www.extension.purdue.edu